With regard to preparing students to pass the common core assessments, what specific strategies would you use to meet the individual needs of all general and special education students in your class?